

Photo

Run With The Red Wolves 5K

A-State students hold up their Run With the Red Wolves 5K shirts after the race. The race had a large turnout due to the promise of a free shirt given to the first 100 finishers. The race was held on the A-State campus Monday night.

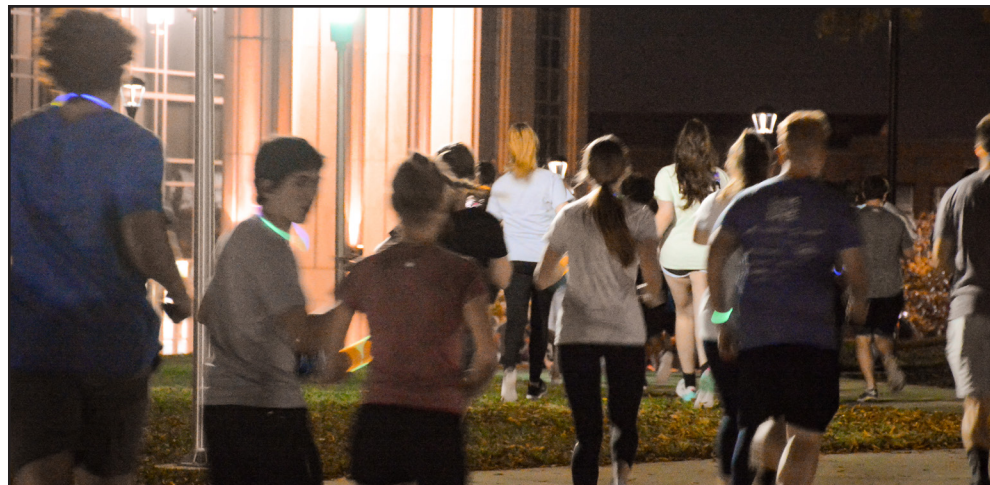

The 5K's first finisher, Zachary White, a freshman bio-technology major from Osceola, holds a Wolves Up!

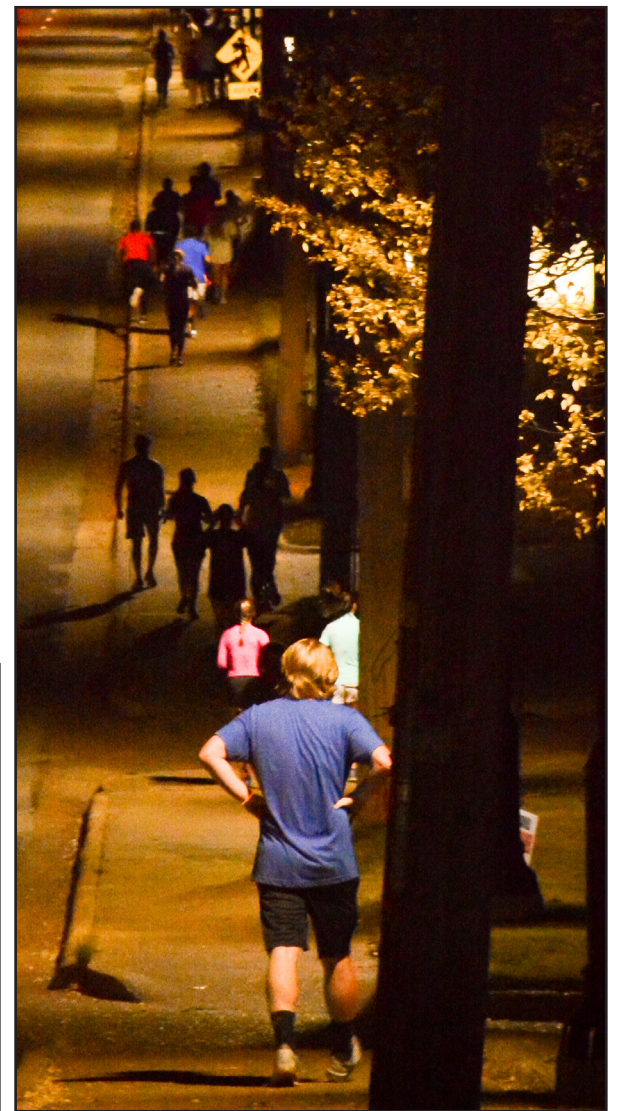

From left to right, Tony Kusema, a freshman nursing major from Ontario, Canada, and Ashley Lestina, a freshman pre-med psych major from Bentonville, after completing the race as some of the first finishers.

The race participants getting ready at Heritage Plaza Lawn by signing in, putting on their glow-stick bracelets and masks, and finding their friends.

The runners taking off in front of the Humanities and Social Science Building.

Runners and walkers make their way up the hill by the National Bank Arena.

The 5K runners and walkers go up the stairs at Heritage Plaza Lawn to begin the race in front of Humanities.

A-State students gather together shortly before the 5K.