

Signs of Democracy

1. Billboard on South Caraway Road advertising incumbent Sen. Dan Sullivan running for re-election to represent District 21 of Arkansas.

2. April Stevens, a cashier who works at the campus Chick-fil-A

3. Cameron Wimpy, Ph.D. a political science assistant professor and interim department chair

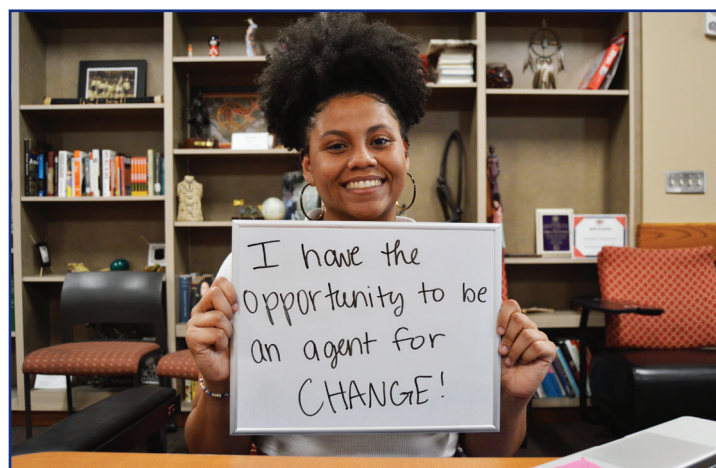

4. A yard sign on South Caraway Road advertising Chris Jones for governor of Arkansas.

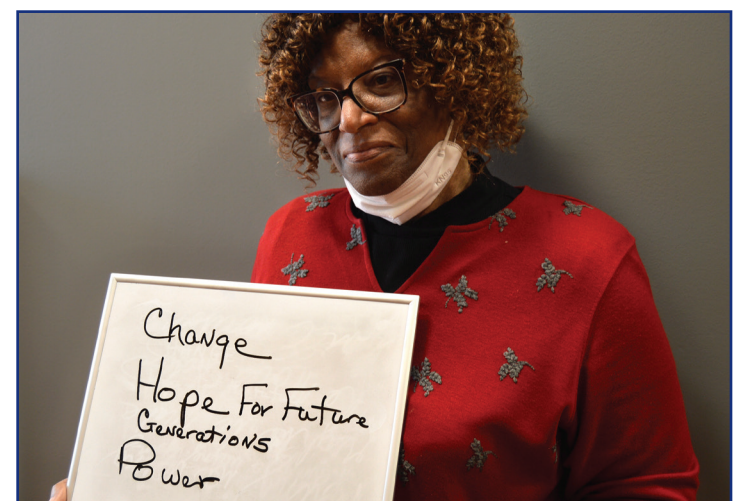

5. A yard sign on the corner of East Nettleton Avenue and South Caraway Road advertising Sen. John Boozman for re-election.

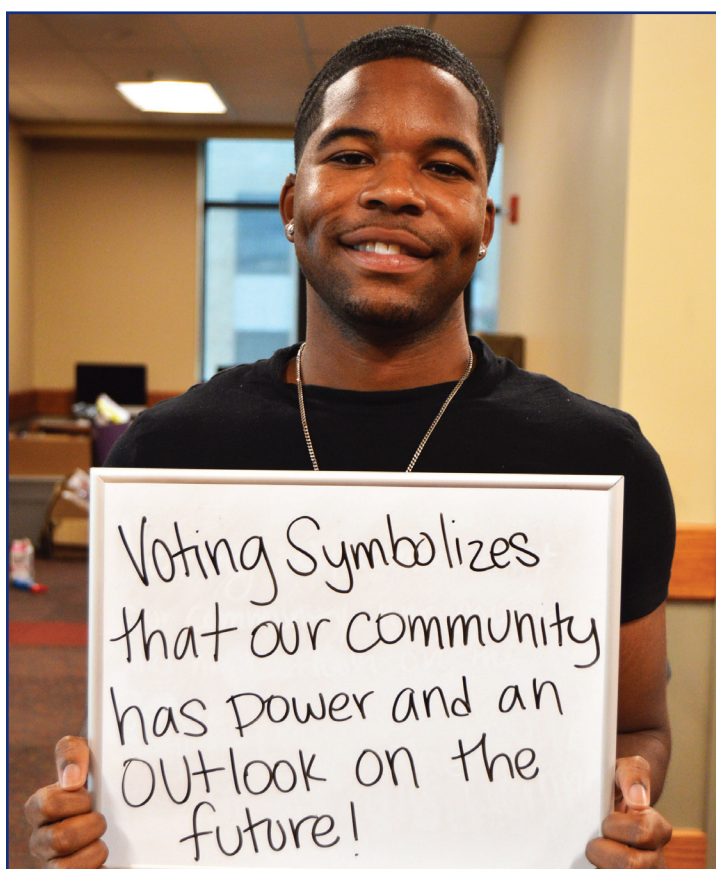

6. A political sign on Aggie Road advertising Sarah Huckabee Sanders running for governor of Arkansas.

7. Amber Yates, a sophomore communication major from Salem

10. Peggy Wright, political science instructor and director of the Delta Studies Center

8. (photo above) Javier Strong, a senior business management and global supply chain management major from Little Rock

9. A political sign on Aggie Road advertising Rep. Rick Crawford running for re-election to represent District 1.

11. A political sign on the corner of Stallings Lane and Red Wolf Boulevard advertising Chris Carnahan running for Arkansas Supreme Court judge position two.

12. (photo on the right) Romello Turner, a junior computer & information technology major from Pine Bluff

To see more images of people and their opinions, visit The Herald website: astatetheherald.com
Photos By Jessica McMillan | Photo Editor