FALL AT A-STATE

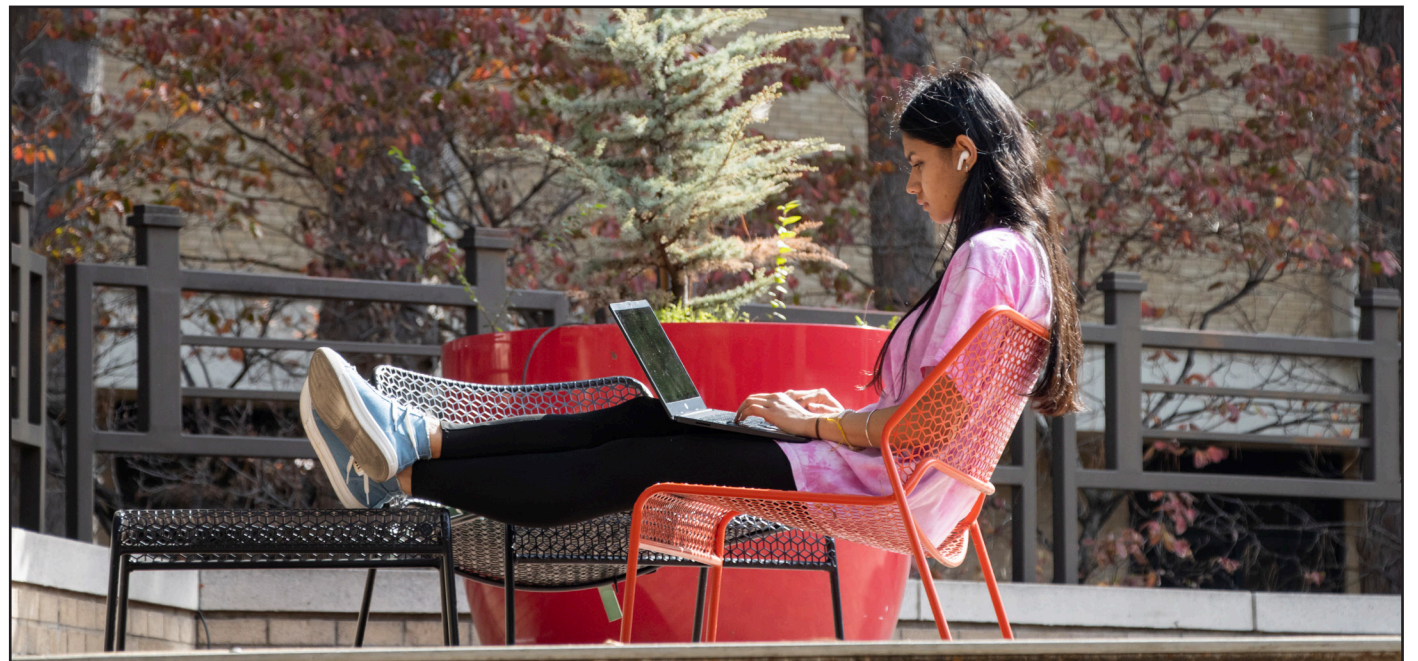

1. Students walk around campus on a warm fall day.

2. Heidy Bulbarela-Hernandez, a senior graphic design major from Stuttgart, Arkansas, said, "Fall is my favorite season because of how much is going on, like pumpkin patches, haunted houses and fairs!"

3. Travis Slaughter throws a baseball. Slaughter, a senior music education major from Rector, Arkansas, said this activity helps relieve college stress.

4. Amisha Bista, a sophomore psychology major from Nepal, studies outside. Bista said she thinks the fall scenery is pretty and reminds her of home.

5. A squirrel gathers a pecan.

6. Students hold umbrellas as they walk to and from classes on a rainy fall day.

7. Junior psychology majors, Alana Holloway (left) from St. Louis, Missouri, and Zoey Sanders from Paragould, sell sweets at the Psych Club Fall Bake Sale to raise money for future events.

8. Students talk and eat outside of the Reng Student Union.
