

Photo

HERE AT A-STATE

1. Geunyeong Shim (left), a senior global supply chain management major from South Korea and Charlotte Menager, a senior international business major from France, drink Starbucks coffees. Menager said this is a nice way to decompress after classes.

2. Creative media production majors Will Wright (left), a sophomore from Jonesboro, and Cooper Melder, a senior from Cabot, Arkansas, pose after having whipped cream thrown on them. Melder and Wright signed up to get "pied" to raise money for ALS with their fraternity Phi Delta Theta as a part of their philanthropy week.

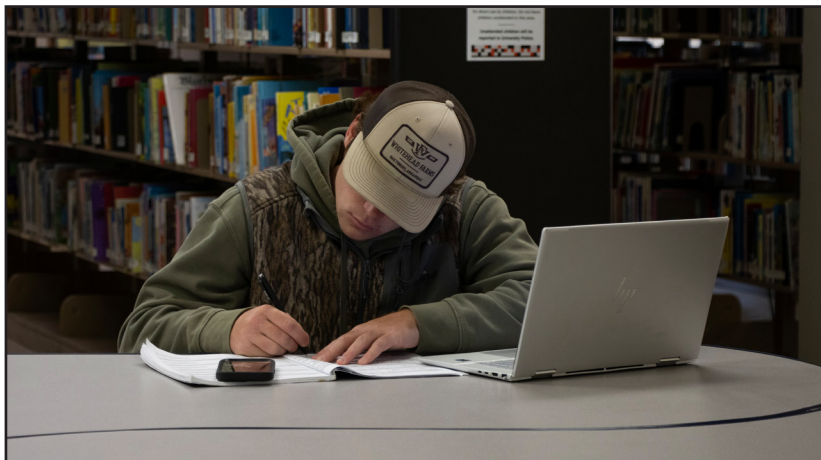

3. A student rides their bike through campus on a cold December day.

4. Asher Faries, a first-year nursing student from Jonesboro, plays the mobile game, "Hay Day." Faries said playing this game is a good way to get in the right mindset and relax before doing assignments.

5. Linh Nguyen, a senior psychology major from Vietnam, relaxes in the Dean B. Ellis library after exams.

6. Cooper Baxter, a junior agriculture business major from Cabot, Arkansas, works on an assignment in the library.

7. Chi Sigma Iota members sell sweets at their holiday bake sale to raise money.

8. Hailey Cummings, the advisor for the Student Activities Board (SAB) and assistant director of student activities, places an SAB ornament on the Student Government Association Christmas tree in the Reng Student Union.

Photos 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 & 8 by Shelby Russom | Photo Editor
Photo 7 by Laila Casiano | Opinion Editor