

The perfect study spot: What's your favorite?

1. Julie Smith, a sophomore biology major from Pocahontas, Arkansas, studies at the Humanities and Social Sciences building.

2. Hunter Wilmes, a junior mechanical engineering major from Paragould, studies at the Hytrol Student Hub in the Lab Science West building.

3. Mark Henry Mario, a junior data science and data analytics major from Juba, Sudan, studies regression and data analysis at Dean B. Ellis Library.

4. (Left) Alli Klusmeyer, a sophomore medical student from Columbia, Missouri and Alex Marshall, a sophomore medical student from Orlando, Florida, study medicine at an outdoor study space.

5. Brenna Ray, a first-year radiology major from Bryant, Arkansas, studies at the student lounge in Reng Student Union.

6. Gracie Wood, a first-year biology major from Memphis, studies the biology of plants at the study space behind Starbucks.

7. Students study chemistry at the study space in Lab Science East building.

8. (Left) Alexiz Edwards, a first-year business administration major from Little Rock and Ava Yancey, a first-year psychology major from Little Rock, study at outdoor study space in front of the student union.